MERCATORA
CAREER BUILDING AND NETWORKING FOR STIFTUNG MERCATOR ALUMNAE

Stiftung Mercator’s new “Mercatora” seminar programme helps alumnae consciously engage with the structures of the “glass ceiling”, learn action strategies and share ideas and experience with other Mercator alumnae and experienced experts from the Stiftung Mercator network.

WHY?

Whether they are active in the fields of international affairs, science and humanities, education, culture or politics, many highly qualified women in Stiftung Mercator’s network report that they face major challenges in rising to the upper echelons of their institutions. Our new “Mercatora” programme aims to provide alumnae from various Stiftung Mercator programmes and projects with a framework within which to share views and experience, to advise one another and to learn important action strategies for their future careers.

WHAT?

Together with our partner, the European Academy for Women in Politics and Business, we have designed a series of seminars designed to promote young women with at least three years of professional experience in their career orientation and, by giving them access to a network of like-minded peers, to strengthen them long-term so as to support their professional success.

Seminar details:

- 2-4 November 2017
  Landhotel Frintrop, Essen
  Where I am now & career building (module 1)
